Mother Not Sure Chorus Girl Was Dress Suit Case Victim.

Boston, Nov. 1.-The most startling developmen h the Winthrop dress suit case mystery to-day was the suggestion that perhaps the dismembered body, found in Boston Harbor, and identified as Busau A. Geary, of the "Shepherd King" Company. was not the chorus girl after all. Mrs. Geary! the other of the girl, said to-night:

"I thought I knew the rings my daughter wore, but now I am not certain. The suggestion that she may be alive has shaken my belief somewhat in the decision that she was the victim of the dress suit case tragedy."

In police circles something of a sensation was caused by the statement of Mrs. Siskind, representing Morris Nathan, that he hoped to show that Miss Geary is, in fact, alive, and that he expected to demonstrate this by producing the young woman. This statement by the attorney was read with peculiar interest in Cambridge, where the Gearys lived, because some members of the Geary family were not certain that the rings found upon the hands of the victim were those of Susan.

This statement was of interest also to the police since it suggested Nathan's possible defence and emphasized the necessity also of the Commonwealth proving positively that the dismembered parts the suit cases, the head being missing, were portions of the body of the Geary girl.

There is not one chance in a million that it is anybody else than Susan A. Geary," said Deputy Neal, of the State police, with reference to the suggestion made by the Pittsburg lawyer who acted Nathan that Miss Geary might be produced e. "The rings," he added, "would not be suffclent proof, but the size of the woman, her complexion and all the corroborative evidence leaves not a shadow of a doubt in the minds of the po-

Morris Nathan, the chief witness in the suit case mystery, and Officer Smith arrived in Boston at 4:20 to clock. A crowd blocked the platform at the South Union Station, awaiting the arrival of the train. Nathan, pale and weak, and apparently ill, came down the carsteps, following Chief Inspector Watts. Arrived at Pemberton Square Nathan was taken at once into the private office of Superintendent Pierce. He had hardly reached the room when a messenger came out. He stated that Nathan had collapsed and needed medical treatment. Dr. Dunn, the police physician, who was summoned to attend Nathan, informed the police officials that it would be imprudent to question the prisoner to-night, and, acting upon this advise, the vamination of Nathan was postponed until to-morrow. Nathan's condition was aggravated by meeting his brother at the Back Bay station. emystery, and Officer Smith arrived in Boston at 4:20

GROUT ON CITY BILLS.

Argues That Population Is Increasing Faster than Expenditures. Controller Grout gave out a comparison of fig-res yesterday in refutation of a published atement that the expenses of the city governent are increasing at twice the rate of populaion increase. He takes the figures for the ears 1900 and 1905, because the State figures or the increase in population between those ears have just been published. They show an crease in population of 164-5 per cent.

The Controller begins by calling attention to he fact that in 1900 there were no public comfort stations, no public baths, fewer parks and creation piers, less school activities and fewer bridges. Then he goes on to say:

pridges. Then he goes on to say:

The total net appropriations for 1900 were $19,778,972.48. The total net appropriations for 1905 were $199,778,972.48. The total net appropriations for 1905 were $19,000,000 for five years. In the year 1901, however, an increase of approximately $4,000,000 was made in one lump by the raise in teachers salaries effected by the Davis law.

Eliminating that item in the increase, the increase in the total appropriations from 1900 to 1905 was at a rate almost exactly the same as the rate of the increase in population.

But the total taxes, and not the total appropriations, are the items which should be considered. From the total appropriations are deducted the various revenues of the general fund, and, since the sinking fund amendment of three years ago, the surplus yielded by the sinking fund, and the balance is the sum for which taxes are levied. The result is that the total taxes levied in the year 1900 amounted to $82,542,173,75, as against taxes for 1905 of $88,985,645,54,5, an increase in taxation in five years of less than $6,500,000. That sum represents a per centage in tax increase in about one-half the percentage of the increase in population during the five years.

FIRST CASE ON RECORD.

Woman Sues Man She Married for Breach of Promise.

The first case on record in this State where a woman has sued the man to whom she had been wedded for breach of promise of marriage came to light yesterday, when Ambrose Barnes Tremaine, a lawyer, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Walgering in the action brought against him to recover $2,000 damages, in the City Court, by Marie Thibodeauz, who says she and Tremaine were married by Father Wucher, in the par-August 15 last. The order for Tremaine's arrest was issued by Chief Justice O'Dwyer, who fixed Tremaine's bail at $1,000, which he gave. In October something fell from Tremaine in the course of conversation between them which made the plaintiff suspect he had another wife living, and she at once taxed him with being a too much married man. He admitted he had been married to a Miss Rogers, at Speonk, now Remsenburg, in Suffolk County, on October 14,

The plaintiff says that on discovering her marriage was a nullity she left Tremaine and has hever seen him since.

Henry M. Stevenson, of No. 76 William-st., counsel for the plaintiff, says he found that Samuel W. Bower, of No. 25 Broad-st., was counsel for Mrs. Hannah R. Tremaine in suit for absolute divorce, instituted by her Against Tremaine, in which she named Marie Thiodeaux as the co-respondent. He submitted converted the parriage certificate which see a copy of the marriage certificate, which set forth that Anthony Barnes Tremaine, a lawyer, twenty-seven years of age, of Brooklyn, had, on October 14, 1891, been married at Speonk to Hannah Moore Rogers, twenty-three years old, daughter of Henry M. Rogers, of that place.

THIRD PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS. Washington, Nov. 1.-The executive council of the Bureau of American Republics, representing all the republics of Central, South and North America, at a meeting held in the State Department to-day arranged for a special session to be held next Wednesday to consider the expediency of sending out invitations to a third congress of the republics and to fix the time and place for the gathering. One conference was held in Washington, about thirteen years ago, and the second in Mexico, three years ago. It is possible that the third congress will be held in one of the larger republics of South Ameri-ca, perhaps at Buenos Ayres, Argentina.

SERVE GAS COMPLAINTS.

State Commission Asked to Investigate Lighting Companies.

Albany, Nov. 1 .- The State Commissioner of Gas and Electricity to-day served upon the lighting companies of New-York, Brooklyn and Syracuse copies of the complaints of one hundred consumers in Greater New-York, who ask a reduction in the price of gas, and of Mayor Alan C. Forbes, of Syracuse, who asks that the commission investigate the quality of gas and the conditions in that city with a view to reducing the price. The companies were required to answer within ten days.

PRESIDING ELDER WILL SUE BISHOP.

Trouble in African M. E. Church-Dr. S. Timothy Tice Tells of His Good Work.

Dr. S. Timothy Tice, Presiding Elder of the New-York Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, has created a big stir in Afro-American Church circles by preferring charges against the Right Rev. William B. Derrick, of this city, Bishop of the Third Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. Tice, when seen yesterday at his home, No. 991 St. Mark's-ave., Brooklyn, sald:

Yes, it is true. I have preferred charges against Bishop Derrick, and I am going to press them. I have been the best friend Bishop Derrick has had and have stood by him when all of the leading men were against him. From all sections of the county I am receiving letters of sympathy.

Bishop Tanner has been here investigating my work, and in his report of what he saw and as to the condition of the work he reported, first, that I vas the best presiding elder in the African Methodist Episcopal Church: second, that the men who are opposing me are unaequainted with the laws and usages of the Church, and are in most cases inefficient; third, that the supposed opposition to me was not based upon my politics or ecclesiastical administration, but was formulated by sellish and jealous individuals, and, fourth, that if supposed high churchmen and would-be leading preachers would stop their interference and leave the people alone, all would be well. I have charged Eishop Derrick with libel and conspiracy, and if the Church does not convict him I will carry the matter to the civil ccurts.

BARNUM & BAILEY TOUR OVER.

Exhibited in Twenty-three States, Crossing Rockies for First Time.

No better tribute can be paid to the efficiency of the railroads of the country than to state that the Barnum & Bailey show, with ninety railroad cars, made a tour of twenty-five thousand miles in six months without the slightest accident. The show exhibited in twenty-three States, crossing the Rocky Mountains for the first time, visiting the chief cities of the Pacific Coast from Everett, Wash., to Los Angeles, and giving 305 exhibitions. The season closed on last Saturday, at Little Rock, Ark., and the entire show is now en route to winter quarters in Bridgeport, Conn., where it is expected to arrive to-day, and where it will remain until the regular opening next spring in Madison Square

TO WELCOME SIR PURDON CLARKE.

Reception To Be Given New Director of Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke, who was elected director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in January last, sailed from England on October 25, on the Cedric, of the White Star Line, which is due today. He will be met at the steamer by several trustees of the museum, and is expected to enter immediately upon his active duties as director. Since his brief visit to New-York, in February last, Sir Purdon has been occupied in closing up the many matters incident to terminating his director-ship of the great South Kensington Museum, of London, and in attending to purchases abroad for the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The president of the museum, J. Pierpont Mor-The president of the museum, J. Pierpont Morgan, and the trustees will give a reception for Sir Purdon at the museum on the evening of November 15, from $:30 till 11 o'clock, to which all the members of the museum are to be invited. The trustees are expected to be present and act as a reception committee. Not less than five thousand invitations are to be sent out. Among those invited will be prominent artists, officers of other museums and city officials.

NEW WATER PLANS FORWARDED.

Corporation Counsel Delany yesterday afternoon sent to the State Water Board the petition asking them to act at once on the plans and maps approved by the local water board providing for an increased water supply for the city. This plan, it is estimated, will cost $161,000,000. It was approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment last Friday.

At that meeting the Corporation Counsel was instructed to draw up a petition to send to the State board at once. Yesterday Mayor McClellan and the members of the local board signed and approved the plans and maps.

Last Friday Charles A. Sigary, the servant of O. H. Edinger, also died of pneumonia. Another passenger afflicted with pneumonia, but who is in no immediate danger, is H. A. Isenberg, the German consul general to Hawaii. His father was the founder of the firm of Hackfeld & Co. in Hawaii. Mrs. William H. Willis and her daughter were also sick from pneumonia, but were able to be removed from the steamer. T. Dezaldo was also sick on the trip from Bremen with a disease that resembled appendicitis. The ship's surgeon. Dr. P. Fischer, was so exhausted from overwork that he was forced to go to bed as seen as the steamer docked. Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German Ambassador to the United States, was in good health and was taken to the city on the revenue cutter. Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt were taken off the steamer at Quarantine on the New-York Central tug Samuel Calloway. The voyage from Bremen was marked with continual heavy seas and head winds. On October 28 Captain Högemann was forced to run at reduced speed for five hours. In the middle of the storm the Kaiser was in communication with the Teutonic, the latter reporting that she was also in heavy weather. The Cedric was also spoken, and requested the Kaiser to report that the heavy weather delayed her and that all were well on board. One of the passengers on the Kaiser sent a wireless message via Sable Island to San Francisco, and received a reply on the same day via Cape Race. Commissioner of Immigration Watchorn's new order requiring a more strict medical observation of first cabin passengers was put into effect last night. Two doctors stood by the main gangway and looked carefully at each passenger as he went ashore. INSPECTION WAS EASY. OBITUARY.

Passengers on Kaiser Wilhelm Passed Quickly, Despite Fears.

Commissioner of Immigration Watchorn's new orders, requiring a stricter examination of first cabin passengers on incoming transatlantic livers, caused considerable uncasiness among the passengers who arrived on the Kaiser Wilhelm II last night, especially among the opera singers, who were anxious to go ashore quickly.

The first cabin passengers learned of the new orders from the daily papers taken aboard the steamer from the pilot boat. All kinds of wild rumors concerning the rigidity of the coming examination were whispered about, but the passengers were set at ease after the first three or four

The inspection was made by three doctors of the immigration service. The passengers were all requested to assemble in the main saloon, and the three inspectors took their stand at the head of the main stairway. Romain Dobler, the chief inspector, stopped each passenger and asked a series of perfunctory questions regarding birth, nationality, etc. While the passenger was answering these questions, the two physicians, on either side of Mr. Dobler, carefully scrutinized the passenger. The questioning caused much delay, but it gave the inspectors ampie chance to observe each individual passenger. Those who were American citizens were passed without delay. The inspection was made by three doctors of the

regard to the common stock of the American Loco motive Company as an investment, the statement is made that the holder of common stock has practically nothing. The trial balances of the corpora-tion for 1902 and 1905 are quoted to show that since the organization there has accrued to the common stock $4.171,604.88 that might be applicable to the liquidation of the common stock, or $16.50 a share, provided the plans and quick assets could be liquidated for sufficient a share to pay par for the iliquidated for sufficient a share to pay par for the preferred stock.

There is doubt of this, says the article, which goes on to state that at the date of organization the preferred stock—$25.09,000, less $900,000 retained in the treasury, was supposed to be underwritten at $110 a share, which represents $21,000 shares at $110, or $26,510,000. The article states that the plants are probably not worth more than $18,500,000, which, with the present quick assets, it is alleged, would give about $25,000,000 for preferred at par and nothing for common.

How are you, Mr. Hat? Fine as silk can make a hat, though not so costly to you as some of my own class.

Our Derbies though are the hats that advertise our hat department every day in the week.
